BEHIND THE HOOK READY

The Highlanders Have All the Best of the Chances to Escape the Disgrace of Finishing at the Tail-End of the Procession, and by the Middle of Next Week Should Be Able to Swap Positions With the Browns.

By Bozeman Bulger.

NE more healthy jump and the Highlanders will land outside the cellar door. They are now limbering up for the leap. Just ten points separate them from the Browns this morning, and at their present rate of speed the Yanks ought to have that attended to and put away for keeps by the middle of next week. They have the percentage. The Browns are stacked against the Athletics, Red Sox and Senators for the rest of the trip, while Chance's gang will take on somewhat easier marks in the Tigers, the White sox and the Clevelands. We refer to the Naps as easy marks advisedly. Right new they appear the easiest club in the league to lick, and the betting is that Washington will beat them out of second place.

A LITTLE LATE, BUT JUST AS WELCOME.

Yes, the Yanks have all the best of the chances in this late hour fight to escape the diagrace of finishing at the tail-end of the procession. Their pitchers are going well, the new fielders have helped wonderfully and such old veterans as Birdie Cree and Ed Sweeney are hitting the ball with championship con-sistency. The Tigers are likely to run into an unexpected snag when they open

ANOTHER BOOST FOR OUR MR. HOLDEN.

Our young friend Holden-the first part of his name is William Penrhynappears to have come here to stay. On his first appearance this New London oungster gave us a flash of speed that was decidedly nourishing, and his hit-ng was up to form. Yesterday he convinced the gang, small and critical as it was, that he had a wing on him patterned very much like that sling that David liked on Goliath. In the seventh finding, with first and second bases occupied, Pratt poked a long single into centre. Mr. Holden fielded the ball perfectly and shot it like a long, white ribbon straight into Sweeney's hand and in plenty of time to nail Baumgardner at the plate. That peg was a corker.

YOU WON'T GET ANY LONG PRICE, EITHER.

By the way, that fellow Pratt, even if he does come from my State, must be ntered as an added starter in the all-bone classic. Pratt qualified in the third uning when, after the third man had filed out to right, he touched second and made a dash to third. When the ball was thrown in carelessly Mr. Pratt inhim that the ride had been out for some time. Hetter put a bet down on that fellow even if John Anderson and Harry Niles are to run as favorities.

Probably the greatest kicking one ball guit in a dorfall, the gang ought to ever received in its litetime was adinistered by Outfielder Walker in the have a much better line on the chameighth inning of the final sanguinary pionship by sundown. They are such a poor attracttion that the crowds at the last two games have been the smallest on record at a New York park. But Frank ought to get even today. Fred Clarke Explains Why Chance Hasn't Done Better With Yanks.

> BY FRED CLARKE. (Manager of the Pirates).

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 13.-This talk about some managers being able win pennants with second rate clubs is foolish. No manager can win games unless he has the players. A capable manager can get the players if given time, but until then he cannot show his ability. George Stovall ook charge of the Cleveland team on short notice in 1911, and what did he do? He performed wonders and had things going in great shape. In St. Louis he could not succeed. In Cleveland he had the material. In St. Louis he didn't. It all goes to prove that a manager must have men of ability and temperament to bring out his own talents. No greater manager than Frank Chance ever lived. A fighter, student of the game and a great player himself, he always had a power over men. But, aside from bringing a little improvement to the New York Americans, he has not been able to emphasize his managerial powers simply because he has not got the kind of men under him that are best suited to his desires. There are players who can be driven and others who can't Stovall and Chance did well with good

Burns Knocks Out Denning

DENVER, Sept. 12.—Frankie Burns, the sturdy young bantamweight of Jersey City, had all the best of his fight with Earl Denning of Chicago, dropping the Windy City boy for the count in the second round with a right to the jaw. Denning was never in the fight; it was all Burns. The New Jersey lad hit Denning at will and punished him unmercifully in the clinches with rights and lefts to the kidneys. The latter blows, delivered repeatedly through the slows, delivered repeatedly through the the Chicagoan sought to clinch, were what weakened him for a rather easy knockout. The blow was a stiff one, but ordinarily would not have produced the

Practically Impossible To Keep Giants Out of Another World's Series

It's now practically impossible to prevent the Giants from appearing in their next and third successive in their next and third successive world's series. They only have twenty-two more games to play, while the Phillies have twenty-seven left. The New Yorkers can win only half of their games and their record would stand 100 won and 54 lost. To approach this record the Phillies would have to win twenty-two out of their twenty-seven remaining sames, an almost miraculous feat games, an almost miraculous feat especially now that the Giants have recovered their batting eyes. The Glants and Athletics have the same lead in their respective leagues— seven and a half games—and the Athletics chances of losing are pra-
